Oroblanco's Specialty Coffee Guide

ffee:

e coffee

with a 1:16 coffee to water ratio. Brew to taste.

Aeropress

The AeroPress is a simple device, it is far less complicated than other methods of making coffee. Unlike the French press, no specific skill is required for pouring over. Simply pour and press.

How To Prepare Coffee:

1. Heat the water:

Bring your water to a boil then let it cool for about 1 minute. (You're aiming for something in between 175°F and 195°F.)

2. Grind the beans:

Measure out 2 full AeroPress scoops of coffee beans (about 1/4 cup) and grind until fine.

3. Wet the filter:

Assemble the AeroPress with a paper filter inside the cap and place on top of a mug or cup. Drizzle a little warm water in to wet the filter.

4. Add the coffee:

Place the funnel on top of the cup and pour in the coffee. Remove the funnel.

5. Add the water:

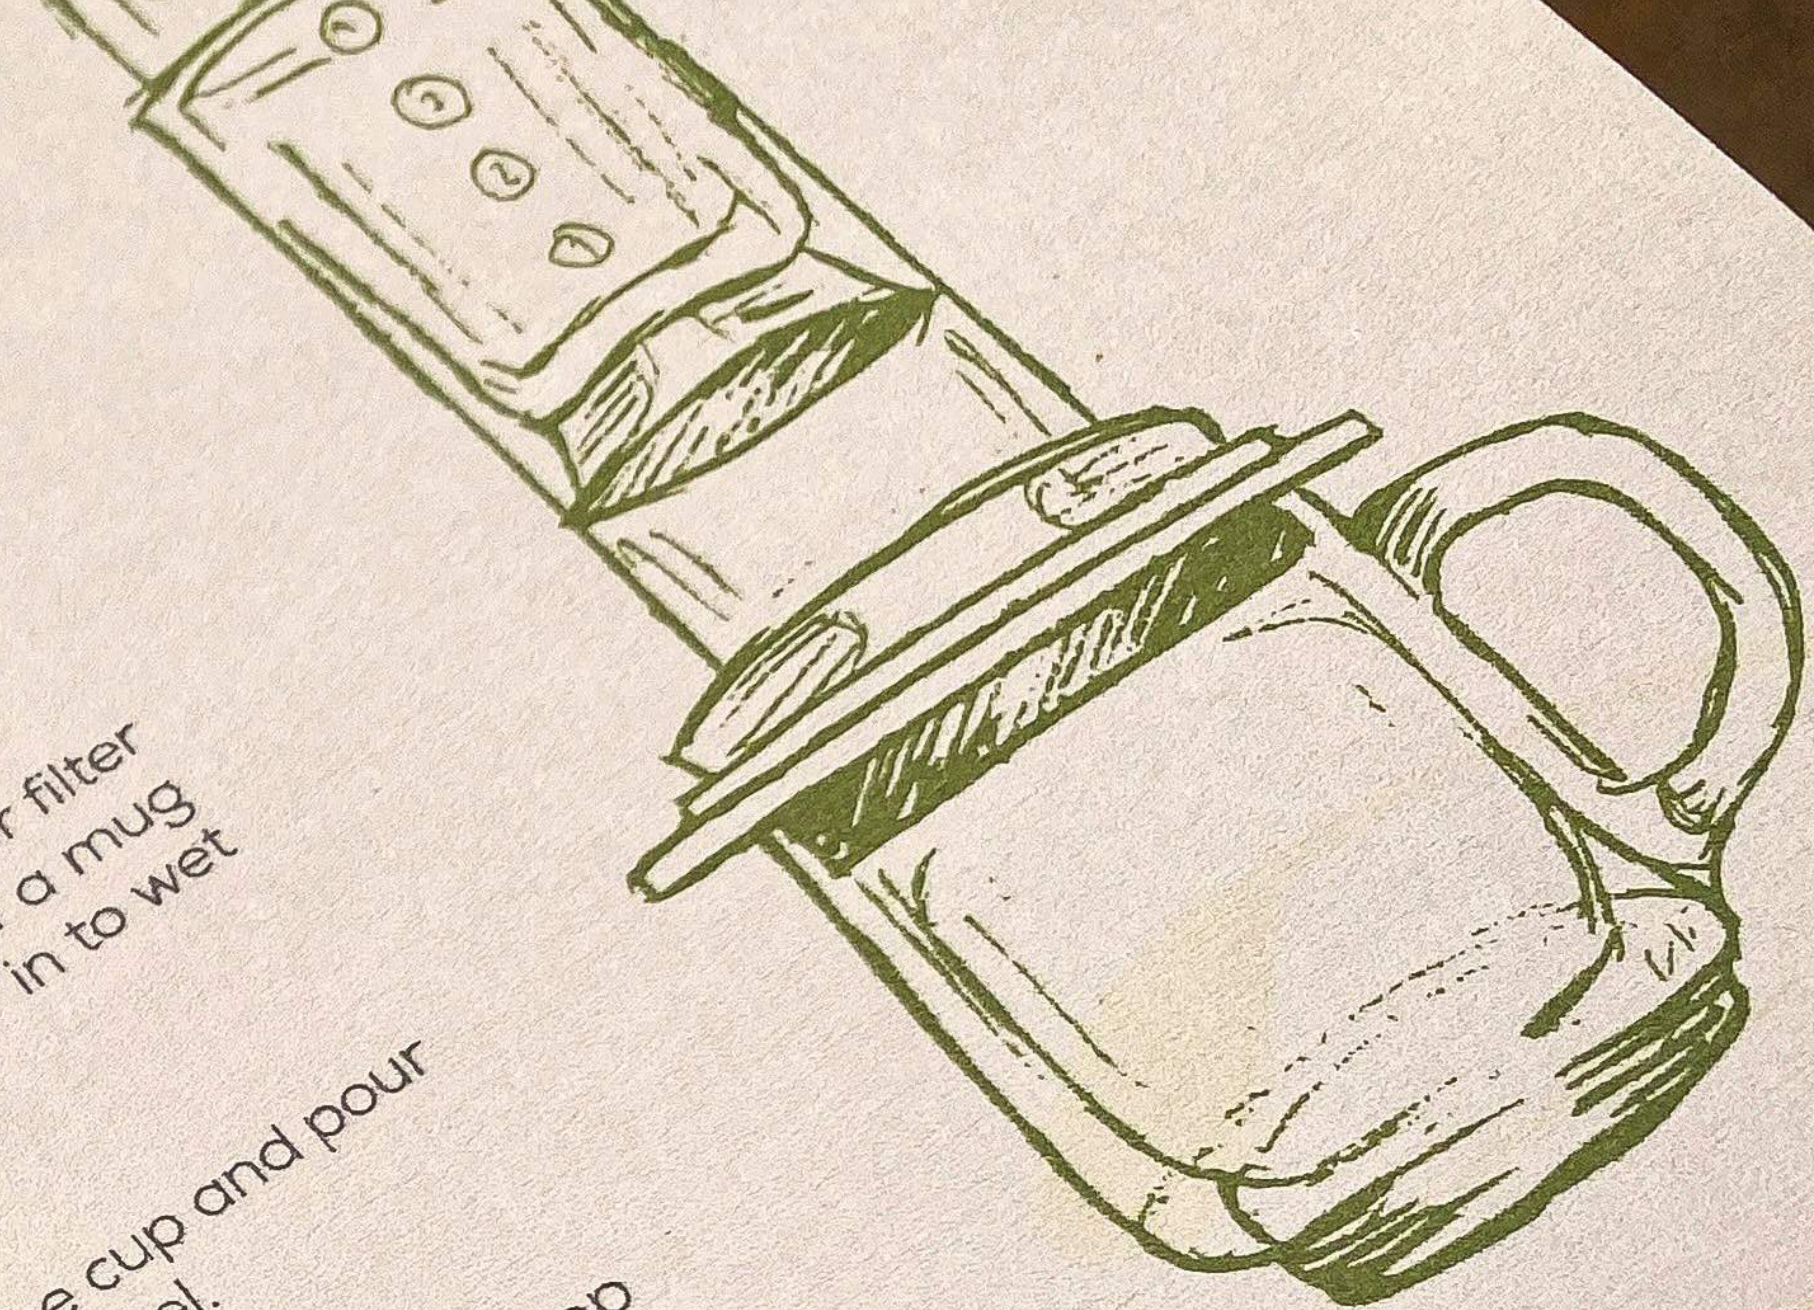

Pour in coffee until it comes up to the top line on the AeroPress. Stir. Use the paddle stirrer (or a spoon) to stir once, briefly.

6. Press. Insert the plunger:

Firmly press down the plunger until you hear a long hiss.

7. Taste and dilute:

Taste the coffee and if desired add more water. The AeroPress makes a concentrated cup of coffee and if desired you can split this amount between two cups and add a little water.
